BROWN'S HOTEL
LONDON

Brown's Hotel, London
A classical retreat in the heart of Mayfair

Brown's Hotel has always been a fashionable meeting place for people – its afternoon tea is legendary, enjoyed by the likes of Sir Winston Churchill and Queen Victoria.

The hotel was founded in 1837 to provide 'genteel' accommodation for discerning guests. That is still our mission. Since refurbishment in 2005, Brown's offers elegant conference facilities and every modern convenience in all 117 bedrooms and suites.

With the exclusive shops of Bond Street a stone's throw away, gentlemanly St. James's equally as close, and the theatre and other West End diversions all within easy reach, Brown's offers guests an experience of London that will make it difficult for them to ever settle for anything less.
